

OUR NEXT-DOOR NEIGHBORS.

Pickings by Star Reporters in Neighboring Cities and Towns.

MIDDLETOWN, O.

Prof. Harry Wright is down on business.

Miss Anna Stryker is visiting at Eaton, O.

Flower Hill festival Wednesday evening, June 30th.

Miss Lou Jones is now in Covington, Ky., visiting friends.

Mr. Wm. Green, of Paris, Ill., is the guest of Mr. John Jones, on Broadway.

Mrs. M. Schloss and daughter are visiting friends and relatives in Cincinnati this week.

Mrs. David Tyson, of Tysville, Ohio, was in town yesterday visiting friends and relatives.

Don't forget to attend the concert this evening at Quixotic Hall by the Harmony Glee Club of Dayton.

Our friend Lee Cridar, of Madison, is getting up an attraction for our street parade, which he says will take the cake.

Mr. Elmer McDonald, of Hamilton, Ohio, is spending this week with his brothers John and Cyrus, of this place.

The handsome cup to be presented to the best marksman in the Tytus Guards shooting counter, to take place at Doty's Grove July 5th, is on exhibition at Bowman's cheap store. Go see it.

The undersigned firms have agreed to close their business houses at 8 p. m. after the 28th instant, Monday and Saturday evenings excepted: S. Goldman, L. F. Bowman, Johnston & Edson, Jos. Mooney, Jr.

The funeral of Miss Stella McClellan, daughter of Dr. McClellan, former resident of this place, now of Brazil, Ill., took place here yesterday morning, after which the remains were interred in the Middletown Cemetery.

Miss Edna Marston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marston, died Wednesday evening at 4 o'clock of brain fever, age fourteen years. The funeral services took place this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church, Rev. T. H. Hench officiating.

Mr. Greimann's new brick residence and store on Ash street is nearly completed.

A new three-story brick hotel on the corner of Ash and Locust streets is now in process of erection.

The damage done to the Post-office and drug store building by the storm last week has been repaired.

The new brick residence on Oak street, near the Presbyterian Church, being built by S. J. Hodges, Esq., is almost completed.

Mr. Marrow, who was thought to be severely injured while coupling cars the other day, is, we are happy to say, rapidly recovering.

The tenth anniversary of the marriage of Rev. M. D. A. Steen and lady was celebrated at their residence, on Elm street, on Tuesday evening and was a delightful occasion. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. D. Akin, and the wedding pair received the hearty congratulations of many friends.

DELAWARE, O.

Last Wednesday night there was an exhibition of the electric light. The Campus was illuminated till about 11 o'clock.

The "Big Six" Band, of Springfield, has been here two or three days, favoring the community with some excellent music. They "took in" the Central Hotel.

DROWNED.—Last Wednesday, in the afternoon, a young lad, aged about fourteen years, who was subject to fits, went to the river bank and was drowned during one of his fits. That was the fifth one during the day.

WILMINGTON, O.

Levi Mills is now City Solicitor. He will receive a fee of $5 per case.

Mr. R. M. Wickersham, of Shillito's, paid his friends here a flying visit a few days ago.

H. G. Cartwright was in the city this week, looking after his monthly purchase of dry goods.

A meeting of the Custer Guards will be held this (Friday) evening for the purpose of electing a Captain in the place of Madison Betts, resigned.

A free fight was indulged in on South street, Wednesday of this week, by Bob Lewis, Frank Lewis and others. Not enough hurting done. All received fines.

The brick and stone masons, and in fact nearly all employers, have suspended work this week to allow their hands to go into the harvest fields and earn from $2 to $3 per day, and assist the farmers in saving their immense crop of wheat. We suspect the wages had much to do with the scattering of the hands hitherward.

Some petty thieves made it lively for the cellars and pantries of Columbus street a few days and evenings ago. A number of the occupants of the houses on the truly good street, found themselves suddenly bereft of many of their good things, such as pies, cakes, preserves, eggs, butter, &c. It would seem that they, too, are not to be exempt from evil doings. It may be well. Let no one boast or be puffed up. They have our deepest sympathy.

MILLVILLE, KY.

Public Schools closed to-day for vacation.

Election of officers at the meeting of Knights of Honor to-night. All members are expected to attend.

All persons that can go should attend the Dayton Public School Picnic next Monday. Children can ride free to Dayton in the street cars.

The Marshal has been put on the track of a number of young rascals who have been doing considerable mischief in and around the school yard.

The two rivals, Messrs. Smith and Foundry, will shake hands next Monday, and both get their papers at the office of this paper, and then plod along together as happy as clams at high tide.

There is a certain class of young men in this town whose object, it would seem, is to make as much noise as possible. Night after night the air resounds with profanity at the foot of Berry. The citizens are becoming tired of this sort of thing, and if not soon stopped they will be heard from in a way entirely unexpected.

PIQUA, O.

A small child of John Schlosser's died Wednesday morning.

The second story of Cron's new furniture factory is almost completed.

Mrs. Chas. Lewis, of Winchester, Ind., is visiting relatives in this place.

Mr. Chas. Sawyer and John Stanton, of Franklin, Ohio, are visiting Mr. Stanton at Swift Run.

The wheat in this region is nearly all cut. Farmers say it will average thirty-five bushels to the acre.

Almost an accident at the Main-street crossing last Wednesday evening. Flagmen should be on the lookout.

The Iron Molders' Union, No. 72, will celebrate its anniversary by holding its first annual picnic at the Fair Grounds, Monday, July 5th. The "Big Six" Band will furnish music and the light fantastic will be tripped. A good time is anticipated.

At a meeting of the Wittenburg College Alumni Association the following officers were elected: President, J. A. Lutz, Circleville; Vice President, Rev. W. H. Slinger, Bellefontaine; Secretary, Prof. G. H. Young, Springfield; Treasurer, A. H. Gillet, Springfield. The association has undertaken the work of establishing an Alumni Library.

A number of fine addresses were delivered by some of the Wittenburg students at their commencement, which took place yesterday at the College Campus. A large number were present and all listened intelligently. They held a banquet at the Lagonda House in the evening, which was also well attended, and singing, speaking and toasts were part of the exercises.

The following marriage licenses have been issued during the week: George N. Whitcomb and Alethea M. Rice, Charles H. Smith and R. Lena Cory, Caspar Houck and Rosa Eckert, Chester L. Winslow and Annie M. Franklin, Hilry Lyles and Maggie Brown, Daniel M. Eshelman and Carrie Nicholas, Charles N. Frost and Ella M. Bond, Thomas S. Smith and Anna Stewart, George J. Young and Elizabeth Miller.

A mass meeting was held last evening at the Lightning Liniment Pavilion in honor of the new Democratic nominees for President and Vice President. Mr. John Thomas was appointed Chairman, and Mr. George Antrim, George Spence, D. C. Ballentine and F. M. Hagen addressed the meeting. Music was furnished by the band and a number of rockets and other fire-works and a large cannon was fired. A large number were present and a big "boom" was had.

LEVER'S ECONOMY.

(The Manchester Times.)

Mr. W. J. Fitzpatrick tells a good story of the way in which Lever, the novelist, endeavored to put in practice Thackeray's advice to him in favor of thrift. That counsel was to begin with small economies, and to stop some one trifling expense that he could very well do without, when he would find the taste for saving grow on him, and gradually include many things once thought necessary. Accordingly, Lever determined to save the daily franc he gave a poor man for holding his pony at the door of a pistol gallery where he was accustomed to practice—the thought of stopping the practice itself never seems to have struck him. He tied the bridle to the hook of the window shutters and went in. His first shot hit the center and set a signal bell ringing loudly, which so frightened the pony that it broke away, carrying the window frame with him—"the repairs" wrote Lever, "amounting to 87 francs, and more ridiculous than I am able to set down. This was my first and last attempt at economy."

Doctors May Blame.

As to the best methods and remedies for the cure of constipation and disordered liver and kidneys. But those who have used Kidney-Wort agree that it is by far the best medicine known. Its action is prompt thorough and lasting. Don't take pills, and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.

OHIO WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY.

Annual Commencement Exercises at Delaware, O.

Special to the Star.

DELAWARE, O., June 25.

The commencement exercises of the Ohio Wesleyan University have been very well appreciated and well attended. The exercises commenced yesterday at 7 a. m. and were continued till about 5 p. m. Many of the Trustees, the visiting committee, and all the members of the faculty were present. The Rev. Joseph M. Trimble, of Columbus, led in prayer. After prayer the following programme was followed out: "Fidelity to the Present," M. W. Webster; "Circumstances Which Help to Make the Man," W. N. Rice; "The New Common Sense," Miss Mamie W. Reagh; "The Scottish Covenanters," John Rathmell; Music; "Culture and Morality," Frank P. Parkin; "The Monroe Doctrine," Joe K. Owen; "The Italy of the Future," Miss Eva McKenzie; Music; "The Gift of Conversation," Miss Clotilda Lyon; "Life Power," J. W. Luclock; "Defects of Philosophy," Joseph Long; Music. 21, 2 p. m.—Music; Prayer; Music; "The Aesthetics of Literature," Miss Minnie Light; "Science not the Soul's Teacher," Miss Maggie E. Dilke; "Symbolism Derogatory to Culture," C. T. Brown; Music.

"Embodied Thought," E. T. Brandebury; "The Study of the Classics," Miss Kate R. Blair; "Our National Dishonor," Bostwick Barnes. Thus, you see, there were sixteen speakers out of the forty-nine graduates of the Ohio Wesleyan University. The graduating degrees were conferred upon the graduating class by President C. H. Payne. Dr. Payne gave the class an address which adds much to his credit. The speeches of Mr. W. N. Rice and Joseph Long were believed by many to be the best; but the Ohio Wesleyan University has no reason to be ashamed of any of her graduates. Parents need not be ashamed to send their children to this university of moral and religious instruction, and also of learning. The exercises of the Crestomathean, Athenian, Zetathean and Moletarian Literary Societies were very good, and reflect much credit on the literary works of the Ohio Wesleyan University. The class-day programme for this year was carried out well. There are 193 students in the collegiate department, 153 students in the Ladies Department, 66 students in the Fine Art Department, 44 students in the Normal Department, and 21 students in the Preparatory Department, making in all 611 students, 409 gentlemen and 202 ladies.

A HIDEOUS CURIOUSITY.

Photographing a Gorilla.

(Philadelphia Times.)

The sight of a photographer leveling his apparatus at a hideous-looking object standing beneath a tree in the yard of the Pennsylvania Hospital, at Eighth and Spruce streets, attracted a throng of spectators to the railing surrounding the Hospital, and as they peered anxiously and eagerly through the iron bars to get a glimpse of the "what-is-it" many surmises were made as to the character of the mysterious thing. Said one individual: "I know it's a mummy, for I saw one at Barnum's show." "There's where you make a mistake," remarked a boot black, "I'll go ye two to one it's General Grant." "Lissen at his nibs," yelled a street gamin, derisively, as he heard the allusion to the third-term candidate; "that's all you knows 'bout it. That ar thing is Charlie Ross." "What do ye say?" It's too big fur to be Charlie!" "Not much; the kid didn't want'er wear dress all his life, so he growed out'them." "Ye ar all on the wrong tack," interrupted a shrewd-looking newsboy. "I just bin inside—now guess what it is. What, ye give it up already? Well, I'll tell yer. It's a griller. It died up at the Zoo from eating wind, and they're taking his mug to send it to his dad in Ark-kee."

While this conversation was going on the photographer was taking a likeness of the creature, which turned out to be the body of a monster gorilla, imported from Africa by Dr. Thomas G. Morton, of the Pennsylvania Hospital. The animal, which was a female adult, fully fifty years of age, presented a horrible appearance. All the hair had fallen off, excepting a small patch on the breast, from the softening action of the rum in which it was kept during the voyage to this country.

It is four feet and four inches high, weighs 140 pounds, and has a chest as large as that of a robust man. The arms measure thirty-eight and one-half inches, and are in strange contrast with the legs, which are only twenty-one and one-half inches long. The head is frightful looking. It is much broader than it is long, and perfectly flat on the pate. A pair of brown, bead-like eyes, dull in death, recede deep into cavern sockets before the abrupt advance of the lower features, which part in a hideous grin, disclosing large and powerful jaws, without any cheek pouches, and a well preserved set of long and sharp teeth. In order to obtain a lifelike picture of the beast it was placed in a standing position beneath a tree, with its right paw grasping a huge branch, giving it the appearance of being at liberty in a forest.

The Grievances of Women.

(Fraser's Magazine.)

I was making an insignificant journey in company with a married pair, between whom there was the most perfect understanding and good intelligence. The lady wore a pair of very shabby gloves, to which, by some accident or other, attention was called. The husband was shocked and ashamed. "One would think," he said, "that I could not afford to buy you gloves." Now, here were the facts of this case. Both had a little money, the wife's share being, I think, about equal to her husband's. He had been a University Don, and was then a "Coach," taking pupils. Some six or eight young men were living in his house, and of course his wife had her cares of housekeeping so much enlarged as to make them an engrossing and constant occupation.

She had besides a large family of small children. If she did not work as hard for her living as he did, then the words have no meaning; but so little did this good man suppose her exertions to be worth, so little share had she, according to his ideas, in the actual business of life, that he spoke of his want of gloves as a reflection upon him, as he might have spoken of the neglected appearance of a child. He had no wish to be liberal—he was fond of his wife and proud of her, and very willing to keep her in gloves and anything else she wanted, but he had no feeling of right in the matter; no sense that her position ought to be anything else than that of absolute dependency. Had it been necessary to bring in a stranger to do the wife's work that stranger would have been highly paid and a very independent person in deed.

But the work of the wife represented nothing to her husband, and gave her, save by his grace and bounty, no right to anything, not even to her gloves and bonnets, her share of the living which she so largely helped to earn. In this respect, however, the most liberal and the most generous men are often as much at fault as the coarsest. They will not allow the importance of the second part in the universal duel. They will give liberally, and praise freely, but they will not acknowledge "My wife has as much to do as I have. Without her work mine would not have half its value; we are partners in the toil of living, and she has earned the recompense of that toil as well as I." No one will say this, nor will the world acknowledge it.

What the world does say when a woman outside of the bonds of marriage claims to be allowed to work for her bread as she best can is, that she ought to go back to her proper sphere, and at her own individual work, all credit is taken from her, her exertions are denied, her labor is undervalued. The only chance for her to get her work acknowledged is to do it very badly, when there will be an outcry. But when it is well done it is ignored, it is taken as a matter of course, it is never thought upon at all. Let this be contrasted with the reverse case—a case by no means unfrequent, though left out of account in all popular calculations. When it happens that the women is the richest of the two partners in life, when the living comes from her side, or when she earns it, she is considered bound to assert no consciousness of the fact. It is a horror and shame to all spectators when she makes any stand upon her moneyed superiority.

That she should let it be seen that she is the supporter of the household, or remind her husband that he is in any way indebted to her, is a piece of bad taste and bad feeling for which no blame is too severe. And the woman herself is the first to feel it so. But that which seems the depth of meanness and ungenerosity in a woman is the natural and every-day attitude of the man. It is a point of honor on her part to ignore to the length of falsehood her husband's inferiority to herself in this respect; whereas the fact of her dependence upon him is kept continually before her eyes, and insisted upon, both seriously and jocularly, at every point of her career.

A French Romance.

One night in 1801 a little girl about one year old was left at the foundling hospital at Brest. She was well dressed and a note pinned to her skirts stated that her name was Solange, and that she would eventually be reclaimed by her father. She grew up, however, unclaimed, and extraordinarily lovely; but her intellect appeared to be weak, and she suffered from fits of nervousness. At twelve she was sent into the streets to sell flowers, until her health failed, and she died. According to a custom in the district, she was buried in a wicker basket, and it being winter and the soil hard, a very slight excavation was made and the sand thrown lightly over. During the night she revived from the trance which had been mistaken for death, and at length crept from the grave, and in crossing the grounds between the cemetery and the fortifications she was stopped by the sentinel's "Qui Vive?" and, not answering, fired at, very slightly wounded and brought in to the guard-house. Her beauty made an intense impression on a rich young officer named Kramer, who sent her to school in Paris. For four years he was tossed about in the war, but on returning to Paris found Solange an accomplished girl, without a trace of the nervous debility which had afflicted her. They married and lived happily in Paris. At length Capt. Kramer learned that inquiries were being made at Brest as to what had become of the girl at the foundling hospital in 1801, and that these inquiries were made at the instance of the Swedish Ambassador, with whom Capt. Kramer communicated. The result was that a month later Mme. Kramer received a formal acknowledgment from Marshal Bernadotte, afterward Charles XIV of Sweden, that she was his daughter. They subsequently settled in Stockholm, were ennobled, and their son became an attaché to the Swedish Legation in Paris.

A workman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost." [Christian Advocate.]

R. H. Warner & Co. have in their possession hundreds of testimonials that say Warner's Safe Mervine will cure headache and neuralgia.

Bequest to the British Museum.

(London Echo.)

The British Museum Trustees have had a long time to wait for a large sum of money, which they knew must come to them some day, and it has come at last. Fifty-seven years ago a barrister, named William White, of Bedford Square, died after bequeathing the bulk of his property to the trustees, who were to enter into possession upon the death of the testator's widow. That widowhood lasted from 1823 to 1879, and then the trustees received stock representing £33,941 13s. 10d., and dividends have accrued during the past year amounting to £1,299. The legacy duty came to £3,369; that has been the principal expenditure so far, and there remains a balance for the ensuing year of £27,964. But a beginning has been made in the application of this bequest to Museum purposes, and £618 has been paid on account for the erection of sheds in the inner quadrangle of the Museum for the reception of sculptures recently housed under the Museum portico.

The trustees intend to spend more of this bequest in building. They purpose making a substantial addition to the southeastern side of the Museum and an extension of the gallery for the exhibition of Greek sculpture, and the latter work is to be proceeded with at once. The accounts of the Museum, ordered by the House of Commons on the 2d instant for the year ending March 31, 1880, contain particulars of the administration of four more special funds. A bequest of the Earl of Bridgewater amounts to £13,117 in 3 per cent. consols, which yielded, together with the balance in hand, an income of £769. This was mainly expended in the purchase of manuscripts and the salary of the Egean librarian. The Farnborough fund of £2,872, with an income of £184, was also devoted to the purchase of manuscripts. The Swinney fund of $5,369, income £343, provides the salary of the lecturer on geology; and the Birch fund of £563, income £16 18s. 8d., goes to swell the incomes of the three under-librarians, whose offices existed in 1766, when the bequest was made.

LIVER REGULATOR.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

For DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Bilious attacks, SICK HEADACHE, Colic, Dropsy of Stomach, SORE STOMACH, Heart Burn, &c., &c.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which in all-wise Providence have placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaints are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back; Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constipated and lax; Headache; Loss of Memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility; Low Spirits; a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes; a dry cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others a very few; but the Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, weakness and DEATH will ensue. I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for diseases of the Liver, Heartburn and Dyspepsia, Simmons' Liver Regulator.

LEWIS G. WUNDER, 1025 Market street, Assistant Postmaster, Philadelphia.

"We have tested its virtues, personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and Throwing headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. We have tried forty other remedies before Simmons' Liver Regulator, but none of them gave us more than temporary relief; but the Regulator not only relieved, but cured us."—Ed. Telegraph and Messenger, Boston, 1876.

Theory vs. Facts.

All established theories are set aside by solid facts. The solid facts in this case are, that the business interests of our fair city have been more greatly enhanced within the past year with one single enterprise, conducted by one single mind, than by all other productive institutions in Rochester. We refer to the manufacture of Hop Bitters. The remedial properties of hops, with the herbs introduced, principally buchu, mandrake and dandelion, had long been known, but there had been so much mere stuff—say, deleterious stuff—fought upon the country, under the general cognomen of "bitters" and "remedies," that this medicine, which had been perfecting under the experiments of skilled pharmacologists and chemists, had to overcome the distrust of all such "remedies" by the slow process of information, which has been so successfully done that to-day the druggist who does not embrace Hop Bitters in the list of his regularly ordered medicine, or the family that does not know its beneficial effects, would be difficult to find.

THE MANUFACTORY

is located on Mill street, from which emanates the preparation that is daily shipped to all parts of this country and to sections of the globe over which the American flag does not flit. The business is splendidly systematized, and everything goes on so quietly that it would be difficult to imagine that so extensive a business was done in that locality. Each department is overseen by competent persons. The items for bottles and for packing-boxes are enormously surprising, and those who furnish these two articles alone have reason to rejoice at the discovery of Hop Bitters, while the myriads of sick people who have been cured by this invaluable remedy have greater reason to rejoice.—[Rochester Evening Express.]

More Facts.

STERLING, ILL., August 22, 1879. We feel we must write something of the success of Hop Bitters. Their sale is treble that of any other article of medicine. Hence we feel it but justice to you and your Bitters to say that it is a medicine of real merit and virtue, and doing much good and effecting great cures. Yours, J. F. & H. B. UTLEY.

ASHTABULA, O., Nov. 16, 1878. Gents—We have used your Bitters, and like them very much. SNYDER & HARRIS, Mfrs. Shafts, Poles, &c.

HAYESVILLE, O., Feb. 11, 1880. I am very glad to say I have tried Hop Bitters, and never took anything that did me as much good. I only took two bottles, and I would not take $100 for the good they did me. I recommend them to my patients, and get the best of results from their use. C. B. MERCEER, M. D.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 15, 1878. We take pleasure in giving you a notice, and a nice, strong one, as it (Hop Bitters) deserves it. We use it, and know it deserves it.—[The Register.]

WENONA, ILL., Aug. 6, 1879. Hop Bitters Co.—O. Wingate bought of us a bottle of your Bitters a few weeks ago, and they did him an immense amount of good. We sell two and a half dozen per week. DENNY BROS.

GREENWICH, N. Y., Feb. 12, 1880. Hop Bitters are the most valuable medicine I ever knew. I should not have any mother now but for them. HENRY KNAPP.

LONG JACK, Mo., Sept. 14, 1879. I have been using Hop Bitters, and have received great benefit from them for liver complaint and malarial fever. They are superior to all other medicines. P. M. BARNES.

GREENWICH, Feb. 11, 1880. Hop Bitters Co.—Sirs: I was given up by the doctors to die of scrofula consumption. Two bottles of your Bitters cured me. They are having a large sale here. LEROY BREWER.

KALAMAZOO, MICH., Feb. 2, 1880. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co.—I know Hop Bitters will bear recommendation honestly. All who use them confer upon them the highest encomiums, and give them credit for making cures, all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they are first offered to the public. They took high rank from the first, and maintained it, and are more called for than all others combined. So long as they keep up their high reputation for purity and usefulness I shall continue to recommend them—something I have never before done with any other patent medicine. J. J. BABCOCK, Physician and Druggist.
